Library receives $10,000 donation

The Harford County Public Library Foundation received a $10,000 donation from Rosedale Bank to continue its sponsorship of the library's Innovation Lab.

Rosedale Bank has partnered with the library since the lab was founded 10 years ago to advance STREAM — science, technology, reading, engineering, arts and mathematics — education. The donation will be distributed over five years and go towards material and technology upgrades in the lab.

The lab, located at the Abingdon Library, is a public makerspace where community members can explore ideas, learn new skills and bring projects to life using advanced technology. The lab is equipped with iMacs, HP laptops, 3-D printers, video production and more.

“Our continued support of the Innovation Lab reflects our deep commitment to Harford County's youth and families, ensuring access to cutting-edge learning tools and creative opportunities,” said President and Chief Executive Officer of Rosedale Bank, Kevin Benson.
