Harford County Public Library Offers BlueCareer Database

Harford County Public Library is now offering its customers BlueCareer, a free, comprehensive online platform dedicated to skilled trades career development. With access to more than 100 trades specialties, including electrical, plumbing, HVAC, welding, automotive and construction, users can explore a wide range of career paths.

In addition, individuals can complete personalized assessments that match them to trades aligned with their strengths, review real-time local wage and growth data, locate accredited trade schools and discover available scholarships. BlueCareer also provides expert-led training resources to prepare for certification and offers direct connections to potential employers, creating a clear and streamlined pathway from exploration to meaningful employment.

The BlueCareer database has been added to the Library's workforce development offerings thanks to a nearly $8,500 grant (#00001767) funded by the Institute of Museum and Library Services and the Maryland State Library Agency.

The BlueCareer platform is powered by EBSCO, a leading provider of research databases. BlueCareer may be accessed with a Harford County Public Library card anytime, anywhere, by visiting hcplonline.org/databases.php. Links are also available on Harford County Public Library's Database, Career, Online Learning and School Support Central web pages.

"BlueCareer is an amazing tool for individuals interested in pursuing a career in the skilled trades. From personalized assessments to training resources, scholarships and direct connections to employers, this platform helps individuals take practical steps toward secure, rewarding employment," said Mary Hastler, CEO of Harford County Public Library.

“We are grateful to the Institute of Museum and Library Services and the Maryland State Library Agency for making it possible to offer this powerful and meaningful resource to our community.”
